

Nuveen Floating Rate Income Fund (JFR)

Marketing communication | As of 30 Jun 2025

Effective 30 Dec 2024, Coale Mechlin joined Scott Caraher as portfolio manager of the Fund. This update is not expected to impact the overall investment strategy.

- The Fund outperformed its benchmark, the S&P UBS Leveraged Loan Index, during the quarter.
- The U.S. economy remained resilient through the first half of 2025, though signs of slowing began to emerge. While much of the softening was due to one-off tariff related distortions, broader economic metrics revealed underlying weakness, as consumer spending slowed and jobless claims ticked up. Against this uncertain backdrop, the Federal Reserve left rates unchanged during the period.
- Loan market technicals were broadly supportive, with solid fundamentals and strong demand outpacing supply. Issuance by collateralized loan obligations, the largest buyer base for loans, totaled $102 billion for the quarter — including $50 billion in net new issuance — pushing the year-to-date total to $255 billion versus $210 billion over the same period last year. Institutional loan issuance reached $441 billion ($102 billion ex-refinancing/repricing) and was well received by investors. Lower-quality loans led the way for the quarter: CCCs (+2.64%) outperformed Bs (+2.45%) and BBs (+2.15%).

Portfolio review

We reduced risk at the start of April as volatility picked up, but then added discounted credits that had traded down amid the broader sell-off. We also reduced the Fund's allocation to issuers tied to the consumer discretionary sector, lower quality credits and loans exposed to tariff-related risks. The team redeployed capital into quality-focused single B names that, based on our relative value analysis, had become more attractively priced, as tariff policy risks started to subside as the quarter progressed. In addition, we added to credits within industrials, where improving policy clarity and the prospect of Fed rate cuts provided better visibility for a supportive backdrop. As always, our focus on larger businesses with strong balance sheets positioned the Fund to benefit from dislocations seen during the period.

Contributors

Positive security selection contributed the most to the Fund's outperformance for the period, specifically in lower tier B-rated names. At the industry level, selection within communication services contributed, driven by exposure to companies benefiting from the artificial intelligence buildout, such as fiber and data transport providers. Among issuers, loans from a leading U.S. fiber infrastructure provider appreciated following strong earnings and headlines that its parent, backed by infrastructure-focused private equity sponsors, was pursuing a strategic acquisition to improve synergies. Selection within consumer discretionary also aided relative results.

Detractors

Avoiding lower-quality, higher-spread benchmark names that rebounded as riskier assets snapped back during the quarter detracted slightly. One example was a media measurement provider whose loans rallied throughout the quarter. We chose not to invest in this issuer due to uncertainty around client retention, questions about pricing power and elevated leverage following a complex sponsor-led transaction.

Important information on risk

Investing in closed-end funds involves risk; principal loss is possible. There is no guarantee the Fund's investment objectives will be achieved. Closed-end fund shares may frequently trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value. Adjustable Rate Senior Loans may not be fully secured by collateral, generally do not trade on exchanges, and are typically issued by unrated or below-investment grade companies, and therefore are subject to greater liquidity and credit risk. Lower credit debt securities may be more likely to fail to make timely interest or principal payments. Leverage increases return volatility and magnifies the Fund's potential return and its risks; there is no guarantee a fund's leverage strategy will be successful. These and other risk considerations such as interest rate risk are described in more detail on the Fund's web page at www.nuveen.com/JFR.

Average earnings per share and average undistributed net investment income (UNII) per share are estimates, using an average of the last three months, except for preferred securities funds, mortgage-backed securities funds and floating rate funds, which use an average of the last six months.

Distribution Rate at market price and NAV is calculated by annualizing the most recent declared regular distribution and dividing by the fund's market price or NAV, respectively. Special distributions, including special capital gains distributions, are not included in the calculation.
