

Nuveen Dynamic Municipal Opportunities Fund (NDMO)

Marketing communication | As of 31 Dec 2025

- The Fund underperformed the benchmark S&P Municipal Yield Index during the quarter.
- Municipal bonds posted another gain in the fourth quarter, delivering a positive return for the full year 2025. The Federal Reserve cut interest rates twice in the quarter as labor market indicators weakened while economic growth and inflation appeared better than expected, though likely reflecting some distortion from the government shutdown. Municipal credit demand remained strong, amid elevated supply and tax-loss selling at year-end. Municipal yields were little changed across the curve in the quarter.
- The Fund trailed the index primarily due to exposure to underperforming Florida passenger rail bonds, which was partially offset by positive contributions from ratings allocation and other stronger-performing credits.

Portfolio review

The portfolio's duration positioning remained shorter than the benchmark (but longer than the S&P Municipal Bond Index). With the steepness of the municipal yield curve offering attractive yields without extending duration risk, the Fund continued to reduce exposure to the longest (25- to 30-year) maturities when it was favorable to do so and reinvested the proceeds in maturities of 20 to 25 years and shorter. As credit fundamentals have remained strong, the Fund held its exposure to below investment grade and non-rated bonds steady and remained selective about new high yield opportunities.

Contributors

The Fund's rating allocation was a modestly positive contributor, driven by an underweight to below investment grade bonds. The Fund has typically held around 50% of its portfolio in these bonds while the benchmark holds roughly 70% in bonds rated below investment grade.

Top contributing holdings included a Puerto Rico water and sewer bond, a Puerto Rico debt recovery bond, a California charter school bond and a Colorado land development bond.

Detractors

The Fund's sector allocation and security selection both detracted from relative performance, primarily because of the bonds of a Florida passenger rail system. Certain bonds saw negative price adjustments during the quarter, which weighed on the Fund's position. The Fund has continued to reduce its exposure to this issuer.

Other detractors, which had a much smaller negative impact, included a hotel revenue bond and a distressed sports facility tax increment bond.

Distribution information

Current Distribution (Monthly)	$0.0620
Distribution Rate on NAV	7.11%
Distribution Rate on Market Price	7.38%

Distributions are currently estimated to include the following amounts from sources other than net investment income: 0% capital gains and 36% return of capital. If a distribution is estimated to include anything other than net investment income, the Fund provides a Section 19(a) notice of the best estimate of its distribution sources at that time which may be viewed at nuveen.com/CEFdistributions or within the Fund's literature section under 19(a) notices. These estimates may not match the final tax characterization (for the full year's distributions) contained in shareholders' 1099-DIV forms after the end of the year. The distribution rate should not be confused with yield or performance.

Important information on risk

Investing in closed-end funds involves risk; principal loss is possible. There is no guarantee the Fund's investment objectives will be achieved. Closed-end fund shares may frequently trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value. The values of municipal securities held by the Fund may be adversely affected by local political and economic conditions and developments. Debt or fixed income securities such as those municipal securities held by the Fund, are subject to market risk, credit risk, interest rate risk, liquidity risk and income risk. As interest rates rise, bond prices fall. Lower quality municipal securities may be more likely to fail to make timely interest or principal payments. Leverage increases return volatility and magnifies the Fund's potential return and its risks; there is no guarantee a fund's leverage strategy will be successful. These and other risk considerations such as inverse floater risk, derivatives risk and tax risk are described in more detail in the Shareholder Update section of the Fund's annual report at www.nuveen.com/NDMO-annual-report.

Distribution Rate at market price and NAV is calculated by annualizing the most recent declared regular distribution and dividing by the fund's market price or NAV, respectively. Special distributions, including special capital gains distributions, are not included in the calculation.
