Various policies are in place across the business to ensure compliance with laws and regulations and to ensure our values on ethical matters are understood by our employees. These include policies on anti-bribery and corruption, whistle blowing, health and safety and employment policies and procedures in relation to equal opportunities/diversity, recruitment, health and safety and employee behavior. We shall continue to review the current policies, procedures and training initiatives for our business to ensure that they fully reflect our commitment in relation to modern slavery.

On going Reviews

In the spirit of continuous improvement and to measure the effectiveness of our actions, our approach to human rights, including modern slavery risks, is subject to a regular review process. Supply chain

Financial/professional services' suppliers

The Group engages with numerous suppliers in relation to its day-to-day operations, including financial and professional services organisations (such as banks, lawyers and accountants). A supplier approval procedure is in place to ensure that such suppliers are taken on in line with policy and we expect all of our suppliers to act in an ethical manner with integrity in relation to human rights issues. The nature of services provided makes such supplier risk low in relation to modern slavery. Due diligence processes are in place to ensure that internal standards are in place and maintained.

Office services' suppliers

In the UK, the Group currently sub-lets its main office space from another lessee and has no direct supply chain in relation to facilities (other than the internal restaurant services), office and cleaning services for such principal office space.

Other suppliers

We appoint reputable management companies to manage the properties and developments that we are involved with. All property managers are required to comply with all relevant policy & procedure documents and complete an annual attestation where they are asked to provide information on their compliance with various laws and regulations, including answering questions directly related to modern slavery. If we find evidence of modern slavery occurring within our supply chain, we will require the supplier to implement appropriate actions or otherwise seek to terminate our relationship with the relevant supplier.

Risk

As a global business, we are committed to ensuring an appropriate risk-based strategy to investment management, including consideration of the risk of modern slavery and human rights offences.

Employees

Employee handbooks which are available to all employees, provide guidance on the Group's employment policies and practices. There is a recruitment process in place to ensure the process is fair, equitable and non-discriminatory. All potential employees are subject to rigorous pre-employment checks including confirming that they have the right to work in the jurisdiction that they will be employed in. Salary benchmarking reviews are undertaken to ensure employee's pay is in line with the market.
